

Airguard, LLC is a women owned small business, based in Fairfield, CT, with international offices in India and Australia, dealing with airway protection devices and has a medical device already in the market. With another medical device in the pipeline, we are working on the resubmission of a proposal for an SBA Grant from the NIH. This is an airway protection device. We require a medical device engineer who is willing to offer consultation for the duration of the project (about a year) and hopefully beyond. We will need a commitment of an hour every month for consultation, with a monetary compensation, subject to grant approval.
